
All-in-one hp touchsmart 7320 pc as external monitor

Autor:

Data de publicació: 12-09-2022

I have an HP all in one that has an HDI input jack. I use an HDMI cable to hook up the all in the one to my laptop but I am not seeing teh display on my laptop extended to my all in one. What am I doing wrong?

13 people had the same question

?08-23-2015 08:43 PM

Fletch43, welcome to the forum.

What is the full model of your computer? There are 590 TouchSmart 600 models. I need the specs to answer your question.

My touchsmart is 600-1151 have seen gaming ones I like...just need the money:) Being able to use my touchsmart will save me from having to buy a Monitor..plus this one is great.

can I use my All in One as a monitor with another computer - HP Support Community - 5219531

Image of the left side of the system

Video display inputs (not available on some models, does not output video)

Ambient light control button (not available on some models)

Two USB ports

Audio input

Headphone audio output

If you read Item #1 it states the following:

Video display inputs (not available on some models, does not output video)

Therefore, it won't work as a monitor.

Before answering questions, here is a video that may help you solve your problem if you are running Win 10: